Workshops

Legal Issues for Healthcare Workers Eric Chester, Esq.

This workshop for Healthcare professionals will focus on a number of legal issues facing employees. From work-related injuries, obligations as a mandated reporter, what to do and not do in a Department of Children and Families (DCF) investigation, and rights to union representation, a wide variety of relevant topics will be addressed.

Work-Related Fatigue in Healthcare Sara Markle-Elder, Assistant Director, Identifying Causes—Finding Solutions Nurses and Health Professionals, AFT

Long shifts, working nights, and overtime contribute to sleep deprivation, impacting your health and putting you at risk for safety errors. Come learn about personal and union-based ways to protect your health. Two contact hours awarded with successful completion of the workshop, including signing in, staying for the whole session, and completing an evaluation. The learning outcome is that participants will be able advocate for themselves and for their co-workers for facility-wide policies, such as non-rotating shifts or stable shift assignments and reductions in overtime.

Financial Analysis in the Healthcare Setting Kyle Arnone, Deputy Director Research and Strategic Initiatives, AFT

Two contact hours awarded with successful completion of the workshop, including signing in, staying for the whole session, and completing an evaluation. Learning outcome: Participants will be able to describe healthcare financing and its impact on collective bargaining.
