

Matt - here is your January, 2016 e-newsletter (with updates since late-November):

Better Choices than More Union Concessions

Our labor federation's president in late-December responded to a Courant editorial that demanded more givebacks from state employees to close future budget deficits. Click here for Jan Hochadel's letter where she offered solutions to the real crisis of inequality and a shrinking middle-class.

Demonstrating Acts of Kindness

Union members in December joined with faith, civic and fellow labor activists in Danbury Rising! to deliver hope for families in need during the holidays. Click here for photos of registered nurses and technical professionals from Danbury Hospital participating in the coalition's first diaper drive.

Time to Elevate Teaching as a Profession

A recent study by the Albert Shanker Institute has sparked important conversations about a public education workforce “diversity gap” and the factors behind it. Click here for the report and learn more about the impacts of teacher turnover on already distressed local communities.

Celebrating a Year of Wins for the Movement

Our labor federation president was honored in December with the Connecticut Working Families' Brian Petronella Labor Leader Award at its annual awards banquet. Click here for photos of community, labor, and civic activists recognized for their efforts over the past year.

Technical Professionals Choose Unity

Medical techs and therapists at Danbury and New Milford Hospitals in mid-December voted to re-certify the AFT Connecticut-affiliated union they formed the year before. Click here for their strong, unified message to management that it's time to "put patients before profits."

A Long-Overdue Public Education Policy “Reset”

President Obama in early-December signed a reauthorized Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) passed by Congress the week before. Click here to learn more about the new law, which leaves behind the top-down, test-and-sanction-based policies of “No Child Left Behind.”

Standing Up for Quality, Affordable Care in New London

We have joined with consumer, healthcare, and labor advocates to protect access and affordability in the proposed take-over of L M Hospital. Click here for our coalition’s release of research that finds higher consumer costs in Yale-New Haven Health Systems’ expansion.

Community Champions for the Holidays

Union members in November began mobilizing to help the John J. Driscoll United Labor Agency make the season a little brighter for children facing hardship. Click here for a photo of toys collected by members of our A&R union at their annual holiday party.
