

Matt - here is your March, 2016 e-newsletter (with updates since early-February):

Demanding Respect for Collective Bargaining

When the governor and legislative leaders openly criticized a contract recently ratified by Public Employee union members our state federation president spoke out. Click here for Jan Hochadel's remarks in which she urged lawmakers "honor this negotiated settlement" between labor and management.

Union Members in the Spotlight

During the month set aside to recognize Career and Technical Education (CTE) teachers and students we highlighted members speaking out for the vital services they deliver. Click here to learn how members of Public Employee unions are advocating for better budget choices than CTE cuts.

Calling Out "Political Grandstanding"

Our Ansonia teachers union president responded clearly when town officials threatened "further and deeper cuts to services and programs our students deserve." Click here to read Mat Hough's commentary on attempts to "upturn and disrupt an established process" for achieving cost savings.

Teachers as Drivers, Not Just Implementers

In his report-back from the National Summit on Teacher Leadership our Bristol teachers union president called for a new approach to public education policy. Click here to learn more about David Hayes' recommendation that administrators serve as the support for classroom educators.

Talking Poverty and Inequality in Hartford

Our national union president in February came to Hartford to tour a school and meet with state and local union leaders, parents and community activists. Click here for photos from Randi Weingarten's visit and meetings where the primary focus was on how to help students thrive.

Connecticut Has a Fairness Problem

In early February we teamed up with our national union to place a full-page ad in The Courant that does more than just criticize state budget proposals. Click here to see the ad and make the call so the governor and state lawmakers hear your voice.

Impact of a Supreme Court Vacancy

The sudden passing of Justice Antonin Scalia in early February raised a number of questions about cases now before the high court, including the Friedrichs lawsuit. Click here for more on what union members must do as a movement to protect our rights to work together.

Our State Federation President's Call to "Stand Together"

Attendees at our annual legislative conference were urged to embrace the “spirit and the practice of solidarity” as we take on issues this year at the State Capitol. Click here to watch Jan Hochadel's video message, which kicked off the early February event.
