

MEET "MARTY" and "JON"

Marty and Jon are union busters, hired by our administration to walk the hallways of our hospitals, and paid with healthcare dollars.

If you are a healthcare worker considering a union, they want to talk to you. Just don't ask them their last names.

"Hi! My name is Marty!" (Martin Dreiss)

- "Consultant," Danbury and New Milford hospitals administration
- Charged with securities fraud, conspiracy and money laundering in "one of the biggest criminal stock-fraud busts ever." (WSJ)*
- Ordered to surrender all weapons, to appear for psychiatric evaluation, to undergo treatment for substance abuse, alcoholism and mental health issues, and to stay away from his wife.
- Pleaded guilty to reduced charges, served 33 months in a federal prison & paid out $1.5 million in restitution.
- Currently Chief Operating Officer of National Labor Consultants, a "union avoidance" (union busting) firm.

"The mob never saw a market it didn't want to control." - FBI director, NY

The New York Times

U.S. Indicts 85 in $100 Million Stock Swindle

By Joseph P. Fried, June 17, 1999

Federal officials announced yesterday the indictments of 85 people who they said had swindled thousands of unwary investors out of more than $100 million. Three of the suspects have ties to organized crime, they said ... "The mob never saw a market it didn't want to control," said Lewis D. Schiliro, head of the FBI's New York office.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

85 Brokers Are Charged With Allegedly Bilking Investors

By MICHAEL SCHROEDER

June 17, 1999 12:01 a.m. ET

NEW YORK -- Eighty-five stockbrokers were indicted Wednesday on stock-manipulation charges, in one of the biggest criminal stock-fraud busts ever ... The defendants were indicted variously for stock fraud, money laundering, mail fraud and racketeering.

"Hi! My name is Jon!" (Jon J. Burress)

- "Consultant," Danbury and New Milford hospitals administration
- Former Financial Secretary Treasurer and business manager of Sheet Metal Workers, Local 67;
- Accused by Local 67 of embezzling $51,000;
- Currently under investigation by the federal Office of Labor Management Standards;
- Has not appealed his case;
- Fired from his position with the San Antonio Building & Construction Trades Council;
- Current owner/president of JDL Labor Relations, a "union avoidance" (union busting) firm.

